

Noticing Patterns of Oppression & Faithfulness

an interactive workshop

March 9th, 10am-3pm

Wellesley Friends Meeting (MA).

For everyone in NEYM (Junior High age and up)

Childcare provided with advance notice

Potluck lunch

Free

In 2018 New England Yearly meeting (NEYM) in Sessions charged Ministry & Counsel with creating a process to name people to help us see when and how we are enacting patterns of oppression. The Noticing Patterns Working Group of New England Yearly Meeting is offering to learn how to identify patterns of oppression, share these noticings in ways the build understanding and community, and build skills for being more faithful in undoing patterns of oppression and just in how we talk and interact with each other. All Friends are welcome, whether you are new to social justice work or have been doing it for a long time. Please consider encouraging others from your meeting to attend.

Register Online: <https://neym.org/events/8358>

For more information contact Lisa Graustein at lisa@neym.org

Accessibility: Wellesley Meeting has level access, gender-free, single-user accessible bathrooms, and hearing assistance devices. Please let us know of other ways we can make this workshop accessible when you register.